

"FLIP," PLAIN DOG, VALUABLE ASSET

He Serves as Cook, Maid, Bellboy, Burglar Alarm, and Saver.
Owner $1,000 a Year.

Playing the role of cook, maid, valet, bellboy, guard against fire and burglars, an other parts too numerous to mention, "Flip," a mongrel canine, saved from starvation while staying in the streets last winter, has proved himself probably the most valuable dog in the National Capital by saving his master and mistress approximately $1,000 a year. Flip is still in that stage known as puppyhood, and each day learns some new trick or accomplishment which adds to his owner's reducing the high cost of living. As the dog is in the best health and probably will live to a ripe old age, his master likely would refuse an offer of $2,000 if only one would care to part with a small fortune in order to possess Flip.

Flip lives in apartment 302 in the Atherton, which is leased by his owners, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hannon. Hannon's boy, who is eight months, came into possession of Mr. Hannon one stormy night last winter. Flip was nearly frozen when he was found by Mr. Hannon and carried to the warmth of the apartment. The pup soon revived and took up the work of learning how to aid the kindly young man and woman, who are at a peculiar disadvantage because of their infirmity.

Before Flip was adopted as Jack-of-all-trades it was necessary for Mr. Hannon to employ a cook and a maid, one for day duty and the other for night, their services being secondary in importance to the companionship they afforded Mrs. Hannon. One of the chief duties of the servants was to answer the doorbell and the bell rung in the lobby of the apartment by letter carriers, visitors, and tradesmen. Mrs. Hannon could not bear the ring of a bell, and found it always necessary to have some one present who could respond to a summons.

The maid was employed to remain in the apartment at night as a guard against burglars. In the event of a fire and in addition to this protection, Mr. Hannon paid premiums on life and household insurance. Tips to the janitor also were necessary, and the young couple were forced to many expenses which those who can talk and hear do not have to meet. Then "Flip" came.

He learned to bark when the door or tube bell rang and to run to his master or mistress with his news, leading them to the doorbell or tube bell after he had attracted attention by jumping about and wagging his tail. He was taught how to run downstairs and get the mail from the carrier and perform innumerable tricks. Mr. Hannon found it unnecessary to employ servants, and the young couple served as companion in day and night, but could interpret sounds to them.

Mr. Hannon has been figuring recently and the following table shows how "Flip" saves his master $1,000 a year.

EXAMINATION CAR IN USE.

Pennsylvania Railroad Employees Put Through Signal Tests.

An important feature of the extensive educational work which the Pennsylvania Railroad is carrying on among its employees is the operation of what is called the signal examination car. This is continually moving from place to place in charge of an examiner who puts the men through tests designed to keep them at a high standard of competency.

The car is equipped with miniature signals for the purpose of examining employees in their operation. Signal, sense of color, and hearing are also tested on entrance to the service and periodically thereafter.

Appreciating the value of direct personal instruction, the Pennsylvania Railroad is endeavoring in every possible way to increase the efficiency of operation by seeing to it that employees in the rank and file are advised continuously about all improvements and innovations which go to make traveling safer for the public and railroading less hazardous for all employees.

SQUARE DEALING URGED.

W. Tyler Page, of Maryland, Gives a Talk at the Y. M. C. A.

W. Tyler Page, of Maryland, formerly clerk of the House Committee on Accounts, addressed the members of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, having as his subject, "Square Dealings." Mr. Page dwelt on current questions, asserting that if each individual practiced honesty and square-dealing, such questions as the distribution of the trusts would solve themselves. Mr. Page took the place of Representative Cuthbert Powers, of Kentucky, who was scheduled to speak, but was unable to be present.

Mr. Page was introduced by A. D. Butherford, hymns were sung and a benediction pronounced by Rev. W. C. Roberts, of Mount Zion, Pa.

College Professors

By GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Stead"

A college professor is a pale, tired man who is trying to teach college boys Latin, sociology, and other intellectual amusements in their spare moments—the boys, not the professors.

College professors are not allowed to use clubs or cigars in their teaching. It is a very hard task, indeed, and we should not blame them for taking so little interest in baseball and bridge while they are at it.

After a professor has secured a firm grip on his chair, he spends his life in teaching and study. Marvelous feats of instruction are performed by some professors, who can take an ordinary football player with massive legs and teach him to decline a Latin verb in less than a year; while other professors have been known to take a large-sized young man and turn him into a thin, nervous, and somewhat fatigued young man, who might have been better off in the line of students from building bonfires in the classroom. Mr.

After a professor has taught for fifty years, he is supposed to retire and live happily on an Andrew Carnegie, who recently set aside eight carloads of money to form a pension fund for professors who have become so old that they are no longer able to prevent the students from building bonfires in the classroom. Mr.

Carnegie's generous act has made it unnecessary for professors to spend so much time in private mathematical researches into the increased cost of living, and has consequently increased their value to their universities.

Professors are magnificent specialists, but need not be believed outside of their particular lines of wisdom.

When a professor who is an absolute authority on early pterosaurs attempts to regulate college athletics, he usually makes a mess of it. While more than one four-eyed phenomenon who knows everything worth knowing about early Aryan spelling has written books about modern marriage, which might far better have been left in the line of students from building bonfires in the classroom. LAWYERS DISCUSS MACDONALD CASE

They See in Precedent of "Qualified Verdict" a Farewell to Capital Punishment.

The qualified verdict returned by the jury in the MacDonald murder case on Friday will have the effect of rendering it difficult to secure a verdict carrying capital punishment hereafter in the District was the opinion of a number of well-known criminal lawyers expressed yesterday.

The MacDonald verdict was the first of its kind made in the District courts since the District code was enacted more than nine years ago. Verdicts of the kind were made under the old regulations, but this was changed by the enactment of the District code. Under the new penal code which went into effect on January 1, 1910, however, qualified verdicts were again permitted.

That a greater difficulty will be experienced in getting the local juries in murder cases to reach an agreement was the opinion expressed yesterday by Attorney Michael P. Mangano. "With any other alternative to them to argue, namely, that of life imprisonment," said Mr. Mangano, "it will be much more difficult to secure agreements from juries than under the former law. It will allow them to bring in a verdict of life imprisonment, which is a very serious matter."

The MacDonald decision, in Mr. Mangano's opinion, "will be a hard blow to the abolition of capital punishment in the District by judicial interpretation. It will be a hard blow to the abolition of capital punishment in the District by judicial interpretation. It will be a hard blow to the abolition of capital punishment in the District by judicial interpretation."
